Wilfredo's Ice Cream Company
Upstart entrepreneur

Bruce founded a niche ice cream company in Cape Town. He took on the role of building an administrative infrastructure and guiding the finances.
Bruce built a cost/price spreadsheet model which grew into a cash flow model. After development this model assisted the directors in realizing the long term non-viability of ice cream products in a small (niche) market.
The business saved R15 million in lost capital by coming to this realisation
